We trust that this enewsletter finds you well and enjoying God's best. As you read through the latest news please pray how you might be able to partner with us to help empower the less fortunate around the world.

Pakistan Update...

We trained the women a few years ago and it was a success. We just heard that they are now opened up a jewelry store in December of 2009 in the diplomatic enclave. Please pray that they will do well in their sales.

IMPORTANT: Michelle and I have been invited back to Islamabad, Pakistan, to train the men's Teen Challenge center. Read the request. One of their workers has raised the money for the jewelry supplies as well as our accomodations and food while there. We only need $4,000 for the airfare and our visas to go.

"The first two sales at Teen Challenge were a great success. And, some of the designs and work coming from the ladies is really impressive. I am so glad you decided to come to Canada to help out, it has made all the difference in the world."

Meet a Trainee - Rayyane's Story

I grew up with parents from different religious back grounds. My mom is a Christian and my dad was a Muslim. I constantly witnessed my mother being a victim of an alcoholic husband who was very abusive. I was also physically abused. This seriously affected and distorted my definition of love. At 15, my parents divorced. I started to smoking marijuana and got drunk for the first time.

In relationships, I always chose the guy who treated me badly. I thought it was normal. At 19, I believed I'd met the man of my dreams. He bought me things I liked and showed me a lot of affection. When he went to jail, he still had a hold on me and manipulated me to break the law for him. He also verbally abused me over the phone from jail and physically abused me when out of jail.

I was blinded by emotions and stuck in self-denial. To cope with the pain, I immersed myself in drugs and alcohol abuse. I thank God for his protection. Eventually I left and came to Teen Challenge. Since entering Teen Challenge God has healed me and shown me that he will never leave for forsake me like the men in my past. I look forward to my future with Jesus and am so grateful for the training that Jewels 4 God provided.

Pioneering in Pune, India

Timothy and Joyce Hiwalre served for 10 years working with Bombay Teen Challenge helping to rescue girls from the brothels and street children. This past years they stepped out in faith living on their savings to Timothy's home town of Pune, India, to pioneer a new ministry to street children. Jewels 4 God has donated supplies to them so they can begin making jewelry and teach the kids as they grow older how to do it. Timothy writes, "We have started our ministry by going to the streets/railway station/red light area, and befriending the drug addicts, prostitutes, and street children. We feed them, clean them, and then introduce them to Jesus."

By faith, Timothy and Joyce have already taken in 7 street children (above) and they need our help. If you would like to help them pioneer the ministry to street children in Pune with a financial gift please send it to Jewels 4 God designated "PUNE."

Help for Macedonia

$6,500 has been raised for us to train Teen Challenge in Macedonia. Another $5,000 is needed. Please pray how you or your church might be able to partner with us to train them. They have been on our waiting list for four years.

News from Siberia

"Dear Tim and Michelle,

You have been such a blessing to us! It's already a year as we have this shop. We remember [that a year ago you came to visit us and taught the girls how to make beautiful jewelry (photo below). Within this period we learned much. It was difficult at the beginning (I mean the organization and promotion of the product) but eventually people got to know about our product, and they like it very much. Now the number of our clients have grown rapidly. We also have people who simply buy our jewelry for their personal collection.

I'd like to share with you how this ministry developed. At the beginning, I used to discuss the possibility of selling our jewelry at different shops, but they didn't pay attention to us. However, after having one look at our product, people wanted to purchase them. The jewelry is getting very popular, and people call us themselves. Now I work individually with customers. Often people order custom designed jewelry. Also, I present jewelry to teachers at schools and various organizations. Due to God, we now have our own marketing product."
